She confirmed her aptitude for this groundbreaking position when during January 2008, she (together with her team) achieved 420 centares in 17 shifts (for the short December month), matching the current average of male-only teams. Pinky and her team achieved 525 centares for the March 2008 measuring month. Pinky is a single 26 years old woman miner and before joining Impala in November 2007 she worked for Harmony Gold Mine in Orkney. She started her mining career in 2005 at Buffelsfontein Mine as a learner miner and obtained her Blasting Certificate in May 2006 at Mponeng Anglo Gold Mine in Carletonville. She says: "My focus will be on safely achieving production targets and I challenge my fellow women colleagues to do the same. My goal is to become a mine manager within the next five years". Lebo Marumole, mine manager at 6 shaft, says: "I am very proud of Pinky's performance. She has been an inspiration to other women in the industry and to date has had no lost time injuries in her team." Shadwick Bessit, Executive Director: Rustenburg Operations says: "Pinky is a great example of what women can achieve and we value her contribution as a member of the Impala team. She is evidence that our Women in Mining initiative is producing people of high calibre." [Ends]
